POLI'S THEATER.

Professional Try-Out at Poli's Tonight. Tonight will be professional try-out night at Polis, when another big bill of six extra acts from New York city will be added to the bill. In addi-tion to the big bill the other acts parcicipate, making a total of twelve acts.
In New York city every first-class theater has a special night devoted to ary-outs. These same arts will be seen at Polfs theater from time to time on at Poll's theater from time to time on try-out nights only. No home talent will be allowed to be played at any of our try-out nights. The bill for the last three days of this week will comprise Dellaven & Sidney and the pretty six matines girls. This act comes here direct from Keith & Proctor's New Tork, where it has been the feature act of the hill. Burkhurdt-Kelly & Co. is an added attraction. Mr. Burkhardt is known as the little man State will be in Hartford at that time state will be in Hartford at that time with the funny slide. He is one of the fellows that always pleases, and his company is of the best fun makers and chocked toll of good laughing material. Lee Carillo will be an added feature. Amends having been chosen as the site of one of the forty-aight experi-mental banks, one in each state, which are to be established first, her post master must go to the capital to learn how it is to be done. In common with the forty-seven other postmasters he will enter the class room and study his lesson. As Mr. Hitchcock hopes to have the postal savings banks in operation by Nov. If or Dec. 1, it is expected that he will ring the school bell at his office within a few days.

gress authorizing the new banks last June, the trustees, consisting of cabinet nembers, with the assistance of a committee from the postoffice department, has been at work formulating rules for the system. These rules are said to be extensive and comprehensive. It will be no easy task according to report, for the forty-eight postmasters to got a perfect mark on their report cards. Consequently Mr. Hitchook felt success would be more scarly assured if he summoned the postmasters to Washington to listen in person to the explanation of the operation of the new system.

tion of the new system.

Great care has been taken in drawing up the regulations and forms of procedure for depositors and the postal cleric. As the forty-eight experimental banks are expected to expand and to a great system embracing every city and town in the country, the committee sought to lay permanent foundations. Consequently their work has been subjected to close scrutiny and many revisions. Publication of all its details is now impossible owing to the fact that the departments of treasury and function are passing upon them, in order that there may be no possibility of error.
